

Summerville was once an escape for plantation owners from the mosquito-laden marshes of the Lowcountry. Today, this historic village has become known for sophisticated shopping, exceptional restaurants, and a hometown hospitality that entices visitors from around the world.

Surrounded by charming homes and gardens on quiet residential streets, Summerville's Downtown Historic District is filled with shops and restaurants offering excellence in variety, selection and personal service.

Shop...unique clothing boutiques, craft shops, antiques, art galleries and more, featuring South Carolina's oldest pharmacy with a real soda fountain and one of the top ten quilt shops in North America.

Dine...an eclectic mix of restaurants that offers a range from gourmet specialties to Lowcountry cuisine to authentic Greek dishes. Find a little of everything to entice even the pickiest of palates.

Play...Festivals, concerts, theatre and art exhibits are produced throughout the year, making downtown Summerville a destination for all seasons.
